The best way to become familiar with my background, credentials and experience is to visit jduclos.com/portfolio, and to read sketches of the work that has had a pronounced impact on my trajectory.

I am a legal portfolioist — project driven — an all-around analytical creative, and a practicing policy lawyer with consequential academic, business and management experience.

As a polymathic counselor, I deploy complementary technical skills and wide-ranging exposure across disciplines to manifest solutions and advance organizations. I often inject research, writing, information architecture, and digital media into legal matters on behalf of professional colleagues.

I understand the creative process inherently; I crave collaboration; and as a lifelong coder and congenital math head I enjoy developing digital spaces and utilities.

My principal modalities are research and writing, though my work product can take many forms, often compellingly modern in nature.
